Beltin Group is a Registered Training Organisation (RTO). Registration is a nationally recognised 'stamp of approval'. It indicates the training organisation can deliver, assess and issue qualifications or statements of attainment to a nationally agreed standard for the specific vocational education and training qualifications it is registered to provide. Beltin complies with New South Wales Legislative and Regulatory requirements and with the Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF).

What is a registered training organisation (RTO)?

An RTO is an organisation, registered in accordance with the Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) Standards for Registered Training Organisations, to provide specific vocational education and training and/or assessment services.

What are the benefits of registration to a training organisation?

Registration enables a training organisation to:

- Deliver and/or assess nationally recognised training throughout Australia
- Issue AQF qualifications which are recognised by industry and all other RTOs in Australia
- Confidently accept the qualifications and Statements of Attainment issued by other RTO providers because they have been subjected to the same quality processes. This process is known as Mutual Recognition and other RTOs will also recognize your Certificates and Statements of Attainment from Beltin.
- Use training products developed by industry to meet industry needs

- Have its registration and contact details listed on the National Training Information Service \(NTIS\) website
- Use the Nationally Recognised Training logo
- Develop partnerships with other organisations or enterprises to provide nationally recognised training and/or assessment services.

What are the benefits of registration for an organisation's clients?

Clients benefit from:

- National recognition of qualifications gained
- Knowing that their training is being delivered by an organisation which meets national standards
- Enhanced career prospects because the qualifications are based on identified industry needs
- Access to recognition of prior learning (RPL), also known as recognition of current competence (RCC)
- Opportunities for articulation into further training (this may include higher education).
